

I am opposed to implanting copy-protection technology in digital television receivers. Just a few years ago, tape recorders and VCRs supposedly threatened the industry's revenue. The sale of audio and video tapes by the industry brought in more revenue than was ever imagined. The industry should now embrace the new technology and discover ways of turning it into a windfall. The industry, NOT THE GOVERNMENT, should resolve the issue.